San Bernardino, Calif, April 17, 2009--With the sponsorship of the National Orange Show, newly-crowned Orange Show Queen Ridhi Patel is gearing up to host a half rock/half hip-hop concert to raise funds for her upcoming competition for Miss California through the Miss America Organization this summer.

The concert will include music from L.A and Northern California artists, as well as a fashion show by a local designer. Most of the artists were excited to offer their services pro bono to support the cause.

Ridhi is excited about the opportunity to bring this concert to the Inland Empire. “A few people wanted to have the concert in LA because many fans of the artists are in that area, but I really pushed to have it here in the I.E.,” she explained. “I think this is a good opportunity for our community.”

Ridhi will compete for Miss California this June in Fresno, CA, representing the San Bernardino County. The winner of Miss California will go on to compete for Miss America. “I’m getting really excited,” Ridhi said.

About Ridhi Patel

Ridhi Patel is currently a junior at University of California Riverside studying Business Economics/Law and Sociology. Her future ambition is to obtain a Juris Doctor Degree and practice International corporate law. In addition to holding the title of Miss National Orange Show, Ridhi is also the current title holder of Miss India America 2008.
